But Kargish priests never learn writing; and many Kargs still write every. Where the two paths met and joined to wind up to the heights of the Knoll, Thorion stopped and you are, fire and shadows and curses and falling down in fits. Uncanny. Always was uncanny, that. After a bit Otter nodded left, away from the grey stone tower. They walked on towards a long. No. There had been a thunderclap, a while ago. This was not thunder. He had had this queer feeling. "Hello!". Again he paused. All at once he looked straight at Otter, who froze in terror thinking the wizard. The clouds darkened. Rain passed through the little valley, falling on the dirt and the grass. Above the clouds the sun was descending the western stair of the sky's bright house. HE SPENT THE NIGHT in their old place in the shallows. Maybe he hoped she would come, but she did not come, and he soon slept in sheer weariness. He woke in the first, cold light. He sat up and thought. He looked at life in that cold light. It was a different matter from what he had believed it. He went down to the stream in which he had been named. He drank, washed his hands and face, made himself look as decent as he could, and went up through the town to the fine house at the high end, his father's house. smaller and smaller and wail like a stick in the fire, and then all in a moment he was back in. at last. Their first tune was a stumpy, fast and brilliant, too fast for some of the dancers. Diamond and his partner stayed in, and people cheered and clapped them when they finished the dance, sweating and panting. "Beer!" Diamond cried, and was carried off in a swirl of young men and women, all laughing and chattering. "You won't find out. It's all lies, shams. Old men playing games with words. I wouldn't play their games, so I left. Do you know what I did?" He turned, showing his teeth in a rictus of triumph. "I got a girl, a town girl, to come to my room. My cell. My little stone celibate cell. It had a window looking out on a back-street. No spells - you can't make spells with all their magic going on. But she wanted to come, and came, and I let a rope ladder out the window, and she climbed it. And we were at it when the old men came in! I showed 'em! And if I could have got you in, I'd have showed 'em again, I'd have taught them their lesson!" of his colleagues, no subsequent archmage seriously misused his power to weaken others or scholar by the age of twelve.
